BATTLE WITH SHARKS.

Exciting Adventure With a School of Man Eaters.

Lighthouse keepers and those living on the beach of the Gulf coast see many queer sights in the way of battles between turt' sharks and swordfish, etc., and all ways illustrating the power possessed by the monsters of the deep.

Two fishermen coming in from Lake Worth, Florida, on a lumber sloop saw a commotion in the water and presently became witnesses of an all around combat between six or seven sharks.

In a few minutes the combatants were fighting and plunging almost under the sloop's bow, and the men, being afraid of some damage to the boat, seized their rifles and fired into the mass. After a few shots the fighting sea tigers fell apart and seemed to be intent on finding their new antagonists.

Then, as if by preconcerted action, several plunged directly at the boat and hit it a resounding blow with force sufficient to knock both men flat on the deck.

A second rush was made, and then the entire school of sharks began pounding against the sloop's sides. Backing off a dozen rods or more, they would come on with lightning swiftness, hitting the boat squarely, making it quiver from stem to stern, and soon there were two sharks floating on the waves, stunned by their own men rushes, but the others kept up the fight.

Presently one shark aimed too high, skimmed over the sloop's rail and fell on the deck with a sound ing whack.

The two men were badly frightened by this time and fired two shots at random. Then they each seized an ax and dealt the mon ter a terrible blow.

Up went the shark's tail and, striking one of the men, sent him flying into the water. He swam to the rail with the energy of despair, and his comrade ran to his assistance, but before he could be hauled in a shark took a piece out of his heel.

The blood that flowed from his wounded foot dyed the water for a yard or more and seemed to excite the sharks to greater ferocity. The shark on deck was killed with a united blow, but something must be done for the others. Suddenly the unwounded man dived down into the cabin and emerged with a can of powder and a coil of fuse. Swiftly fastening a piece of pork around the can, he attached a short fuse, lighted it and, going to the stern, threw the can into the mass of sharks.

Before it had hardly touched the water a big fellow swallowed it at a gulp, and in a second there were pieces of shark flying in every direction. The effect was magical. The sharks fairly fell over each other in the fight and the two plucky seamen were saved from a terrible death.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

According to the scientific authorities, the average female oyster deposits at least 10,000,000 eggs during a single spawning season, and it is said to be no uncommon occurrence for an individual oyster to have 50,000,000 and even 80,000,000 to her credit. Comparatively few of these eggs, however, reach the fertilization stage, and of those that do few survive to form many and fatal are the dangers that threaten. Sudden changes of temperature, cold rains, greedy fish—all contribute to further the odds of nature. An oyster egg has less than one chance in 10 millions of reaching maturity.—National Magazine.

A DOCTOR'S HEROISM.

His Very Remarkable Feet Required Strength as Well as Bravery.

The author of "The Malakand Field Force" records the following deed, which was performed in India and was indeed a noble one. It occurred after night had fallen upon a notly contested battle ground. The British had with a great difficulty repulsed an enemy overhwhelmingly superior in numbers and had withdrawn into their defenses. The deadly hollow sound of distance in front of their lines, called "the cup," was commended from several directions by the fire of the natives, and swept at intervals by their swordsmen.

Lieutenant Ford had been seriously wounded in the shoulder. The bullet cut the artery, and he was bleeding to death when Surgeon Lieutenant V. Hugo came to his aid. The fire was too hot to allow of lights being used. There was no cover of any sort. It was at the bottom of the cup. Nevertheless the surgeon struck a match at the peril of his life and examined the wound. The match went out and a spatter of bullets, which kicked up the dust all around, but by its uncertain light he saw the nature of the injury.

"The officer had already fainted from loss of blood," the doctor seized the artery, and as no other ligature was forthcoming he remained there for three hours, holding a piece of his finger and thumb in his mouth. It seemed to him that it had broken into the top of his head. Up the unconscious man's arms and, without relaxing his hold, bore him to a place of safety.

For many hours after this feat, as remarkable for the strength displayed as for the heroism which inspired it, the gallant surgeon's arm was paralyzed and useless from the strain. Little wonder. Not every man could carry another away using one arm only and with the other hand retaining a grasp which had already lasted three hours upon a severed artery.

"Had he not had the strength to do so Lieutenant Ford must have died," is the way his commanding officer put it when he narrated the act in his dispatches.

Saved by April Fool Time.

When Francis, duke of Lorraine, and his wife were awaiting death in the prison of Nantes they chose as the day for an attempt to escape the 1st of April.

Disguised as peasants, says a chronicler, the one bearing a hol on his shoulder, the other carrying a basket of rubbish on her back, they both at an early hour of the day passed through the gates of the city. A woman having a knowledge of their persons ran to the guard to give notice to the sentry.

"April fool!" cried the soldier, and his comrades to a man shouted out, "April fool!"

The governor, to whom the merchant was related as a great jest, became suspicious and ordered an investigation, but it was too late, for in the meantime the duke and his wife were well on their way. The 1st of April had saved them.—London Tit-Bits.

Sacred Trees of India.

There are many sacred trees of India which enter largely into the religious life of the Hindoos. Chief among these are the saint tree and the trembling peepul. Nearly all the higher hills and rocks in the plains are crowned each by a temple, shrine or sacred tree. The peepul is known as the king of trees. It is the most holy, and the three great spirits of the Hindoos dwell therein. The worship of the tree is the worship of the triad Brahma, Siva and Vishnu. Almost every Indian village has its peepul tree, with a raised platform or altar around it. The devout remove their shoes before it and make obeisance before proceeding on their way.

Bad Breaks.

"Johnny, Johnny, didn't I ask you once to stop wandering at the table?"

"Yes'm."

"Well, do you want me to ask you again?"

"No'm, I don't want you to make no bad break."

"Bad break? What do you mean, Johnny?"

"Well'm, you said it was wrong to ask for things at the table."

SHIRT COLLARS.

The Detachable Ones Were Invented by a Troy Woman.

It is now authentic rated beyond a doubt that Mrs. Hannah Lord Montague was the inventor of the detachable shirt collar. Hannah Lord was born in Cuman, Columbia county, Dec. 14, 1791, a daughter of William A. Lord, a Revolutionary officer, member of the state legislature and the author of "Lord's Tactics," used by the early ante militia. She was married on Aug. 11, 1817, to Orlando Montague and they took up their residence at 139 Third street, in Troy. Mr. Montague as near as can be learned was engaged in making line shoes for women. He was a large man, especially particular in matters of dress, even to the point of fastidiousness, and in those days, before the invention of the sewing machine and when there were no public laundries, the making and washing and ironing of his shirts was no small item in the work of the household. Not unlike many housewives of those days, Mrs. Montague was resourceful, and in a tip about for devices to lighten her household duties she hit upon the idea of a detachable collar which might be fastened to a neckband on her husband's shirt and washed and ironed separately. When the collar was soiled the shirt had to be washed, but by this device two or three collars might be used with one shirt.

Mr. Montague was delighted with the idea and was proud of the new acquisition, which he displayed to his friends. Almost immediately requests came to Mrs. Montague from friends and neighbors to make similar collars for them, and, as if it were related, "the available material in the patch bag was soon exhausted, and I actually in vest in a yard of linen."

In 1829 Rev. Ebenezer Brown, a retired Methodist clergyman, who had settled in Troy and started a small dry goods store at 285 River street quick to take advantage of the popularity of the new separate collar, opened a small workshop in the rear of his store, where his wife and daughters and one or two other women put out with scissors, stitched by hand and washed and ironed the collars, which he disposed of by peddling. This was in reality the first collar shop.—Leslie's Weekly.

PERSIAN CATS.

How They Are Classified—Points of a Fine Animal.

Long haired Persian cats may be classified as blacks, blues, whites, silvers, oranges, cream or fawn, for toise shell, tortoiseshell and white, brown tabbies, any other color.

The silvers are subdivided into minor classes as follows: Chinchillas, shaded silvers, silver tabbies, masked silvers, smokes.

The coat of the long haired Persian cat should be long and thick, its texture fine and soft. There should be tufts of hair projecting from the inside of the ears, also around the jaws.

There should be a fringe of long hair around the throat, extending back to the shoulders and down the chest to where the front legs join the body. There should be tufts of hair growing upward from between the toes.

The head should be massive, but round, with great width of skull between the ears, says Country Life in America. The ears should be small and set low. From the forehead to the nose the line should be slightly concave, the nose itself being short.

The back should be broad and level, but not too short; the legs short, paws round, brush or tail of medium length, wide and carried low. The eyes should be large, round, luminous and set level. The expression of the face, taken as a whole, should be gentle and sweet. The general appearance of the animal should be cobby and its movements easy and graceful.

In disposition Persian cats are naturally inclined to be loving and gentle, but as they are very high strung it is an easy matter to spoil their dispositions entirely by rough or unkind treatment.

Legend of St. Winifred's Well.

The flowing legend is supposed to have given its name to St. Winifred's well, once the most celebrated hot well in Great Britain: Winifred, a noble British maiden of the seventh century, was beloved by a certain Prince Cradocus. She repulsed his suit, and he in revenge cut off her head. The prince was immediately struck dead, and the earth, opening, swallowed him. Winifred's head rolled down the hill, and from the spot where it rested a spring gushed forth. St. Bueno picked up the head and reunited it to the body, so that Winifred lived for many years a life of great sanctity, and the spring to which her name was given became famous for its curative powers. The well was located in Holywell, County Flint, England, and was regarded with great veneration during the middle ages, being visited by thousands that believed implicitly in the healing virtues of the water. It is now in a state of neglect. A court house was constructed over the famous well by the Countess of Richmond mother of Henry VII.

THE WEATHER

Fair tonight and Sunday. Warmer Sunday.

One more day at 'em, then the voting.

The story will be told by twelve o'clock Tuesday night.

Every man should hold the job he has just like there wasn't another one.

There is a growing demand in this county for men who are to be found right politically in times of need.

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party, as the new typewriter student is taught.

Those of you who haven't registered, and can't want to show up today at the court house and attend to this important matter.

Many men all over the country, who have voted for all of the Republicans as they came till now, are balking at the present lineup.

If we had the money that has been spent on this campaign, we'd start one of our own, and it wouldn't be a political one, either.

It may be that as soon as this election gets over with, that the authorities at Washington will get busy in the postoffice building at Dothan.

Of all the campaign documents sent through the mails free as a part of congressional records, we have seen none sent out by the Democrats. They didn't have access to it.

Politics makes strange bedfellows, is not a saying that came over with that Mayflower crowd. It had its origin way back in the 40's, or early 60's, when the colored brother became a factor.

Some of the rural letter carriers of other towns have been called on to chunk in $25 of their hard earned salary, for the Republican campaign fund, and those fellows coughed the amount, for they had gone on record for that party.

Tell us the number of presidential postoffices in Alabama, the number of Republican political jobs in the state, and we can take a soft Faber pencil and figure out in less time than a minute, just how many Republicans we ought to have in Alabama.

One New Yorker offered to bet ten to one that four months after Bryan is elected that all the factories and mills of the country will close, but he explained that four months after March 4 would be July 4. He was joking in everything except that he thought Bryan would be elected.

Mr. Roosevelt has wire-worked around till he got the carpet manufacturers to raise his son's wages. He's the limit on pulls, that man is. Next thing you know, he will have them weaving a special design, showing his picture on it, as he looked when he ran the country, as well as Judge Taft.

Lots of good votes will be thrown away on the dumber parties, such as the populist, the prohibitionist, the socialist. No remedy for it. There will be more than two parties we suppose, as long as we live.

A good and true Democrat should be thought much of in times of political scraps, and when his record is clear as a Democrat, he should have preference at the handing out time. The lines are going to be drawn much closer in future than they ever have been before.

If the first term of this new federal court came off before the election did, Houston county would show a very small and therefore much more respectable Republican vote. We are sure the citizens will see things during that first session of court that will open their eyes to the meaning of much Republicanism in this county, or any other Southern county or community. We think every citizen who has been contemplating making a change in politics, would do well to see this court pulled off before subscribing to the Republican principles. May be grossly deceived, but keep the warning posted in your hat. You'll see things.

Every voter should read the past record of the Republican party, and get familiar with some things it stands for, as well as those it doesn't stand for. It stands for, and always has, social equality among the negroes and whites, stands for it because by keeping up such rot as that it can get the negro vote, where he is allowed to vote, but we can see no reason for the Alabama division of the party standing for it, or catering to the negro in any way, but it is doing it. It is doing it because that is instructions sent out from headquarters. No Republican is his own boss. There is always a man higher up to give orders. Orders have gone out that the negro must be dealt with softly and nicely, for they vote in many states.

Sorry For Him

In looking over the record for some mean things to say about Bryan, Tom Watson makes the charge that Bryan has sent his children to schools which were patronized by negro children. This is probably so. It is no fault of Bryan's. He lives in Nebraska, a Republican state, where no color lines are drawn. No separate schools are maintained from public funds. He had no choice in the matter, unless he sent his children a long way from home, to a Democratic-ruled state.

He, of course, could hire a private teacher for his children, as Alabamians would do if the Republicans were to get in the majority in this state. That what we would do if we did want to send our children to mixed schools.

Mr. Bryan is to be pitied for living in such a state. He can't help such a state of affairs unless he can make his state Democratic one.

Battling the Elements

FIRST the sun and then the rain with their destructive forces soon start decay—unless you've got the right paint protection. Not protection for today, tomorrow, or even one year—But paint protection for two years, three years, five years, or even ten years.

Lowe Brothers with 35 years of experience in paint making have solved the important problems of paint-protection. They produce a paint that by actual test stands for years if the Paint is properly applied on a surface in fit condition to receive it.

Lowe Brothers "High Standard" Liquid Paint is an economical paint—not in the price per gallon—but in the cost of covering any stipulated number of square feet, and in the length of time it will protect that surface.

That's the test of the COST of any paint. There is a Lowe Brothers Paint for every purpose. Besides "High Standard" Liquid Paint there are:

- Interior Enamel for woodwork and walls—
- Vermicul Enamel White for fine finish and bath rooms—
- Quick Hard Drying Floor Paint—
- Carriage Gloss Paint, a beautiful finish with high gloss for buggies and carriages—
- Vermicul Stain, the best stain and finish for floors, woodwork and furniture—
- "Little Blue Flag" Vermicul for fine house finish.

The "LITTLE BLUE FLAG" is a Lowe Brothers emblem of quality. On every can of paint it is a guarantee of a full measure of paint-satisfaction.

ENGLISH SWORDS.

They Go Through Sixty or Seventy Processes in the Making.

In the first place, remarked the sword king as we walked through his big London factory, we make 10,000 swords a year and hope to go on making more in spite of all the peace conferences in the world. You must know that all our steel comes from Sheffield in fourteen foot lengths, each one and a half inches wide.

Every first class sword takes ten days to make and goes through sixty or seventy different processes. It is then tested by being screwed into a kind of toy cannon and brought down flat with great force on a steel table, which is covered with a wire cage in case of any accident.

After the surface has been proved the back and edge are struck against a small block of oak, the final test being that of bending and the Toledo proof of thrusting against solid iron.

The regulation sword for an infantry officer costs $4.40. Cavalry swords are much more expensive, the regulation weapon even for troopers in the hussar regiments costing $6. Hussar officers also wear full dress mameluke scimitars at $12 1/2 each and must possess court swords, with hilts of cut steel, which usually cost $80.

The dragoon's sword costs as much as $8 10s., although the highly ornamented weapons worn by generals and admirals of the fleet cost but $7 to $8 each.

The same price is paid for the weighty claymores used in all highland regiments. But the Scottish officer of expensive tastes may pay from $20 to $30 for his dirk if he desires one set with real cairngorms.

Of course presentation swords run into a lot of money. Some time ago we had an order from the foreign office for a sword for a dusky monarch.

The pattern of the blade was specially designed and inscribed. The scabbard was of belskin, mounted with 22 carat gold, and the weapon cost £80. Many swords costing over £100, however, are made for foreign officers, and a superb weapon, ornamented with ivory, gold, silver and precious stones, which was recently ordered for the king of Siam, cost no less than £750.—London Answers.

Curious Case of Mirage.

M. Flammarion, the French astronomer, has written much on mirages and has actually photographed the bridges over the Seine, with the river and the buildings in the immediate vicinity, seen from Paris, inverted in the sky. He also records a curious case of mirage experienced by French troops in Algiers. What appeared to be a number of Arab horsemen were suddenly seen moving toward the French camp from the horizon, and scouts on horseback were at once sent forward to reconnoiter, but when they had gone about a mile they became curiously distorted and seemed to be giant horsemen riding horses several yards high. On their return they reported that the Arabs proved to be a flock of flamingoes moving by the side of a lake, which at a certain distance, owing to the curious state of the air, were changed out of all resemblance to themselves and assumed the exact appearance of the Arab horsemen they were at first believed to be.

Still Useful!

A small girl, lost at Coney Island, was kindly cared for at the police station until her parents should be found. The matron, endeavoring to keep the child contented, had given her a candy cat, with which she played happily all day.

At night the cat had disappeared, and the matron inquired if it had been lost.

"No," said the little maid. "I kept it most all day. But then it got so dirty I was 'shamed to look at it, so I let it."—Youth's Companion.
